The Asian Community Trust (ACT) aims to build a “Bridge of Mutual Help and Resource Sharing” in civil societies across Asia. In providing financial assistance, ACT observes the following guidelines for funding.

I. Project Criteria

However, applicants who are from either of the “Countries in Asia” written below and plan to implement either of the activities written in the above-mentioned “1. Area of Focus”, please contact to the ACT Secretariat.

Countries in Asia (as defined by the Japanese Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MOFA)) that are

About ASIAN COMMUNITY TRUST (ACT)

Established in 1979, the Asian Community Trust (ACT) is Japan's first Charitable Trust in administering bequests and funds donated by Japanese individuals and organizations for causes of Asian people. Based on annual revenue from the assets of the Trust, it has since been committed to financially support various non-profit organizations in the region that are involved in social and economic development, education and youth development, environmental protection, cultural preservation, and other concerned activities. ACT was created out of the belief that an alter-mechanism to government channels is needed to promote collaboration and mutual assistance among Japanese and other Asian people to assist and empower those socially ignored and in need, attain environmentally sustainable development, and preserve and enrich cultures, and thereby develop a sense of “community” in the Asian region.

ACT works in partnership with local people’s organizations (POs), non-governmental organizations (NGOs), and other civil society organizations in Asia by financially supporting their projects in the following major areas: Agriculture and Rural Development; Education and Youth Development; Health Care; Environmental Conservation; and Cultural Preservation. For the past several years, due to its limited capacity in funding, ACT has been focusing primarily on the following countries: the Philippines, Indonesia, and Cambodia. It hopes to expand number of countries in years to come by strengthening public relations activities with potential donors of trusted funds and also being engaged in general fund-raising activities in Japan, hopefully in other Asian countries, too.

ACT holds tax-deductible status for donations accredited by the Japanese Ministry of Finance.
